

Kanine Korner

By Francis X. Lohmann

For some unexplained reason, many dogs like to chase automobiles. Car chasing is a dangerous business, both for the dog himself and for pedestrians or children playing in the area.

The first reaction of the driver is to swerve, especially if the dog is foolhardy and plays it close. There is, of course, the added danger for the driver and for other cars.

It is an excellent idea to discourage car chasing and one of the best methods of doing this is to keep the dog leashed at all times. Most city dog owners are forced by law to do just this, but in many suburban communities, either there is no leash law or it is less strictly enforced, and there is the great temptation to let your dog run to his heart's content as long as he does not damage your neighbor's property.

FROM THE dog's point of view, the moving car may be a challenge of some kind or it may be attractive simply because it is moving. Perhaps the dog wants to try out his speed against the car's. It may even be that the sound of the motor has excited him.

If it is impossible for you to keep your dog on a leash or restricted within his kennel or on a long chain, then you will have to seek other ways. And remember this, although some other way may seem a bit harsh, the car chasing habit outranks it. In this nation, cars are the number one killer of dogs.

One way of breaking your dog of auto chasing is to tie a rope around his body (mind you, not his neck) with plenty of length, say 20 or 30 feet and then let him run after a car. When the rope runs out, he will come to a startling halt. The shock will probably throw him off his feet, and you, too, if you don't brace yourself. After a few times at bat stopping on a dime the dog should get the message.

BOWSER BROWSINGS — The first aid kit for your beloved dog should include a pair of tweezers, a pair of pliers, straight scissors, a rectal thermometer, a teaspoon, a tablespoon, and some cotton. For dressings you might buy a container of cotton balls, a roll of cotton and a roll of gauze. For medicines stock ammonia, aspirin, brandy, 3 per cent hydrogen peroxide, bicarbonate of soda, mineral oil, salt, tea, vaseline, baby oil and baby talcum powder. Any of these items could some day save your dog's life.

Cat fanciers will be happy to know that Pet Pride is staging a fancy cat and kitten display at Century City in the Pavilion on Saturday. Cats of all types and breeds will be on hand to greet the feline-loving public.

Distemper is a dreaded disease and the number one killer of dogs. Everyone who owns and loves dogs should know more about this Rasputin of dog diseases. The booklet entitled "The Distemper Story" can be yours free of charge by mentioning Kanine Korner and addressing your request to Gaines, "The Distemper Story," Box 1007, Kankakee, Ill. It is most interesting to note that Sunnysbank, the estate of the late Albert Payson Terhune, author of the series of books about his famed Collies, is now owned by a real estate broker.

BREED OF THE WEEK — Brussels Griffon. The Brussels Griffon's upturned, bewhiskered little face gives him a monkeyish, almost human expression. Terrier-like in build, the Griffon is also gifted with the alert intelligence and high-spirited good humor, definitely Terrier attributes.

Typical specimens of this breed are characterized by a smart strutting carriage and short, thickset bodies.

The Griffon is NOT of ancient lineage. The breed in his present form probably did not exist much before the 1880s. It took a combination of four older breeds to produce the 20th Century Brussels Griffon.

These four breeds included the Affenpinscher, a Belgian street dog (known as the Stabe Griffon), the Pug and the Toy Spaniel. The Griffon's short pushed-in nose, large circular eyes and domed skull are most likely conceived from the Pug and the Toy Spaniel.

The breed's cocky intelligence, hardiness and gameness make him one of the most attractive of the toy breeds.

The Brussels Griffon tips the scales at about eight pounds and in height eight inches.

Snow, Ice Cited as Hazardous

A warning to exercise extreme caution in the mountainous areas of Los Angeles County has been issued by Sheriff Peter Pitchess. The sheriff cited the record of his department which indicate 12 injuries and three deaths in recent weeks resulting from treacherous snow and ice conditions. Precautions suggested by the sheriff included: checking with policing agencies or members of the U. S. Forest Service to determine the conditions of the recreation areas and obtaining the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department publication "Safety Rules for Hikers." The latter is available at any one of the 14 sheriff stations in the county.

Others in the cast are Nannette Jones, Karen Champlin, Wayne Sabo, Linda Owens, Timothy Stafford, Christopher Bystrom, and Neil Campbell.

Precautions suggested by the sheriff included: checking with policing agencies or members of the U. S. Forest Service to determine the conditions of the recreation areas and obtaining the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department publication "Safety Rules for Hikers." The latter is available at any one of the 14 sheriff stations in the county.

WARRIOR TRAILS

By Robin Newcomer

The time of Easter bunnies, colored eggs, and a one-week vacation from school is here. Happy Easter, everyone!

March 10 and 11, 27 speech students from West participated in the Spring Open Speech Debate Tournament and returned home with 18 awards. Credit for superior achievement in debating was given to Ernie Park and Steve Doyle. Superior certificates in speaking were given to: Steve Pearlston (he received two), Tom Pretorius, Brad Coombs, Shirley Steinburg, Steve Johnson, and Mike Dixon.

Certificates of excellence were awarded to Brad Coombs, Bill Findley, Shirley Steinburg, Marie Schneider, Dave Magnuson, Steve Pearlston, Jerry Pretorius, and Tom Pretorius. Congratulations!

The second new procedure is an idea exchange at the beginning of a House meeting. A prepared set of questions will be given to House members. The results will be given to the proper organization or people.

GIRLS! The South Bay Panhellenic Association is awarding a scholarship this spring to a girl graduate of a public high school who plans to continue her education in a four-year institution which has college social sororities. Applications can be picked up in the counseling office.

JoDee Taylor, an active junior on campus, has been selected to be our Girls' State Representative this summer. The Girl's State Program takes place at the University of California at Davis where girls from throughout California learn about state government.

THE TRACK TEAM had a victory over El Segundo on Friday and also did well at the Dominguez Relays on Saturday. Bees and Cees took the championships in their divisions. In the individual events the Varsity took first place in the shot put, second in the distance medley. The Bees came in first in the sprint medley, mile relay, polevault, and 70 yard hurdle. The Cees placed first in the shuttle hurdle, distance medley, mile relay, and long jump.

Speaker of the House of Representatives, Ron Heide-man, introduced two new innovations to the House. One of these, the Reference Guide, is to acquaint members of the House and students with the duties and responsibilities of House members, parliamentary procedure, the steps to pass a bill starting in the House of Representatives, and the duties and responsibilities of the standing committees. The Reference Guide is available to any interested student in his social studies room.

Police Free Redondo Man

Charges against a Redondo Beach man arrested last Friday on suspicion of burglary have been dropped, Torrance police said yesterday.

John Michael Cable, 26, of 233 S. Juanita Ave., has been released because of insufficient evidence, police said.

Scholarships Offered HS Students

An invitation to local high school students who are wholly or partly of Italian ancestry and Catholic, to compete for eleven college entrance scholarships of $250 each was issued today by the Italian Catholic Federation. Application blanks may be obtained by writing Scholarship Committee of the organization at 678 Green Street, San Francisco, California 94133, and must be returned to the committee by April 8.

The scholarships are open to qualified students who will graduate this year from any public, private or parochial high school in California, Nevada or Chicago, Illinois. Awards will be made on the basis of financial need, scholastic record, activities in high school showing leadership and character, and personal statements. Faculty recommendations must accompany each application.

Complete Class

Neil E. Campbell, president and general manager of the Credit Bureau of Torrance, Inc., has completed a management training institute at Michigan State University
